Annexure-I
Pest Control Services - Defined

1. General pest control - Against Cockroaches, Silverfish, Red & Black Ants.
2. Rodent Control - Against Rats, Mices and Bandicoots.
3. Fly Control - Against House fly, Flesh flies.
4. Lizard Control "Integrated Lizard Management".
5. Mosquito Control - Against Anopheles, Culex and Aedes Mosquito.
6. Bed Bugs

1. General pest control

This treatment is for the Control of cockroaches, Silverfishes, Black & Red Ants. The treatment is based on the use of gel bait and spray i.e. CRAWL-X.

Mode of Treatment:

The treatment comprises use of baiting technology that provides maximum efficacy against target insects and minimum impact on human activity. The CRAWL-X is a low dose technology requiring very small size application of the bait. This technique is supplemented with liquid pesticide formulation of Deltamethrin 2.5 Flow and will be applied as crack and crevice, spot treatment. The complete combination of chemicals used in this service is odorless, without any smell & more effective than the conventional spraying methods. The treatment can be carried out in sensitive areas such as electrical control boxes, computers etc. There is no need to leave the premises during and after the treatment. No needs to empty drawers cover up sensitive equipment, computers, or do any special preparation this treatment can be carried out during working hours and with causing disturbance to staff or guests of The Hotel.

Frequency: Weekly services in kitchens, bakeries, and rooms (4 services in a month) and daily in banquets & meeting rooms.

Pest Management log sheets: as required will be maintained with details of the chemicals used and area treated with timings etc.

Preventive Measures to be taken: For this treatment to be effective, an integrated approach-involving LTH (production/engineering/maintenance staff is necessary. These will be suggested /evaluated during quarterly Audit inspections.) Exclusion - Inspection of incoming material for cockroaches before storage and use in premises. Seal possible entry points, for cockroaches around drain lines near bath, w/c. Elimination of water source - Sealing of leaky pipes & taps and not over watering indoor plants, which can create damp, moist places suitable for cockroach survival. Elimination of food source - Maintaining good sanitary and hygienic practices is important. Proper and daily disposal of garbage, use of garbage bins with tight fitting lids, regular cleaning of production and other canteen areas, vacuuming and sweeping. Elimination of harborage - Sealing cracks and crevices, holes in cafeteria kitchen, keeping away trash, regular cleaning.

2. Rodent Control:

RAT-X treatment is for the management of rodents i.e. rats, mice, bandicoots at aforesaid hotel location.

Mode of Treatment:

RAT-X service is used inside and on the exteriors of any building or facility.

For indoor control of rats and mice, Glue boards or multi-catch wire traps will be used. Advantages of using glue boards are that they are simple to use as no food or poison baits are used and the catch can be disposed off without the dead mouse or rat causing odor / contamination problems from inaccessible production areas. Spacing of these devices is to be determined on practical feasibility, upon inspections. (While placing rodent bait stations on the external perimeter of the premises, spacing will be at every 3 to 4 ft. away from any door opening. There will be one bait station for every 50 to 60 feet of linear length along the exterior walls of the building. Fixed location depends upon type of premises). All internal and external rodent control devices will be serially numbered and shown on the Rodent control device Floor plan. An inspection log sheet / card should be maintained. Wherever, RAT X station has been installed, a log of individual trap will be maintained. We would also suggest the hotel's staff preventive measures during quarterly Audit inspection to be implemented by hotel along with modifications in any conditions congenial for rodent breeding / attractions.

Frequency: Daily to monitor activities on the bait stations and glue boards.

Preventive measures: These will be suggested / evaluated during quarterly Audit inspections. Effective control of rodents require implementing preventive / rodent proofing measures with the use of various control techniques such as Good sanitation, Daily pick up of garbage, good storage practices / proper storage procedures both indoors and outdoors, Reduced outdoor harborages, weeds, old equipments / scrap, Rodent proofing, etc.

3. Fly Control:

This treatment is for the control of pests such as Houseflies, flesh flies, and gnats. Houseflies may spread diseases such as conjunctivitis, poliomyelitis, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, anthrax, leprosy, cholera, diarrhea and dysentery. Certain larvae of blowflies, bottle flies, and flesh flies may feed on dead as well as living tissue of mammals, causing blood poisoning, contamination. The treatment will be done by MUSCA-X.

Mode of Treatment:

The treatment will be based on preventive control, which is aimed at controlling fly breeding points within the compound area of the hotel premises. No pesticide, space sprays, residual sprays will be used inside the production /packing/storage areas. Space sprays, residual insecticide treatment of K'Othrine i.e. Deltamethrin

2.5WP/ Flow, or Alphacypermerthin 10 SC as water base will be applied outdoors. All breeding places, external periphery and sewers/ drains will be covered.

Method of Application: Deltamethrin and Alphacypermerthin water based will be applied as controlled spray with the help of 3-lt./5-lt. capacity hand compression sprayer.

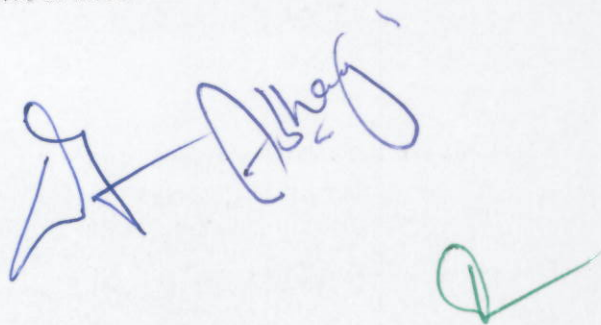

Frequency: Daily service.

Pest Management log sheets: As required will be maintained with details of the chemicals used and areas with timings.

Preventive Measures: Total reliance on insecticide applications in and around the units, often results in failure to produce long-term control result. Constant effort must be made to eliminate and dry out potential fly breeding sites. At times, insecticides may be helpful in reducing heavy nuisance fly populations. Priority should be accorded to inspect periodically and recommend habitat alterations.

4. Lizard Control:

Lizards are common pests in buildings that are surrounded by vegetation or are close to areas of dense and shaded plants. There are several different types that naturally occur around houses and other buildings, they may be a pest according to the season or geographic region. Lizards are pests simply by their presence indoors; they do not live or infest indoor areas, but come in from surrounding vegetation. These animals may contaminate products.

Mode of treatment:

Lizards are active primarily during daylight. They move indoors during the early evening or early morning in search of insects that are attracted to lights at night. Lizards feed primarily on insects and spiders; they especially prefer ants. They are solitary animals, but they may occur in large numbers where there is abundant vegetation and moist conditions. These animals can easily walk on smooth surfaces, such as walls and ceiling. Their only protection is a tail that breaks off and their speedy retreat when they are startled. The treatment aims at use of spray targeted towards the live Lizard and is confined to non-production areas. For production area, use of physical control can be undertaken. However, emphasis needs to be given on preventive methods implemented by your staff. This treatment will be carried out at certain specific times of the day, which depends upon the behavior of lizards. They will be treated with TRAPPING.

Frequency: Weekly with daily monitoring

Preventive measures: These animals are difficult to control because they may enter premises at several locations. The best control is to limit open doors and windows, especially those at ground level. Sticky traps are perhaps the best method of control. These should be placed around doors and windows. Outdoor (and even indoor) lights at night should be reduced if lizards become prevalent; they are attracted to the insects that come to the lights. Reducing the vegetation around premises may be helpful in limiting the number of lizards that are in the area.

Mosquito Control – Against Anopheles, Culex and Aedes Mosquito.

It is an integrated approach which comprises of two treatments as following

1. Larvicide Treatment.
2. Adulticide Treatments.

1. Larvicide Treatment:

This treatment carried out to control the Larva present in the stagnant water in the premises

Method of the Treatment:

The larvicide treatment is carried out by spraying of the larvicide on the water surface to create a surface layer on the water.

Chemical to be used: LARVICIDAL

Frequency:

Weekly

2. Adulticide Treatment:

This treatment is carried out to kill the adult Mosquito present in the premises

Mode of the Treatment:

The Residual Spray Treatment of adulticide is carried out on wall & Floor Junction on the wall. The wall to wall spray treatment is carried out to control the Mosquito sitting on the wall. This will also kill the mosquito when it sits on the sprayed wall/surface.

The fogging service is carried out to control mosquito in outdoor areas which does not have lasting residual effect.

Chemical to be used:

Deltamethrin 2.5 SC @ 10ml /Lit of water.

Alphacypermerthin 10 SC @ 20ml/Lit of water.

Deltamethrin 1.25 ULV @ 5ml /Lit of oil base. (For Fogging)

Frequency:

Residual Prophylactic Spray Treatment - Daily
Fogging Service - March to November Daily / 280 Services

Bed Bugs:

Frequency - Quarterly in rooms

Mode of treatment :

Non chemical techniques (Heat flushing and vacuuming to minimize the live infestation in rooms)

Chemical - Propoxure 20% EC.

Method - Water based treatment of corners, mattress, pillow, curtains.

Room to be available for 24 hours after treatment to provide ventilate for chemicals odor.

*Treatment effect is not residual. It is contact poison. In case of change of guest it may re-appear as pest migrate with luggage.
